I strongly suggest you call me back to discuss this issue. I want to know the truth and I deserve to know the truth. More importantly, you need to set the record straight for our father and make sure that his true wishes were known. I trusted you and believed you when you told me that our father wanted YOU to have the money; and if that is in fact "the truth", that is fine. (I don't need the money and this isn't about the money!)

Some information has come my way that has me concerned and upset. I am deciding what to do with this information and wanted to hear you out before I make my decision about who to give this information to. Hence, I am giving you an opportunity to set the record straight and keep this matter private. I hope you will do the right thing and call me.

I need to know if our father did in fact disinherit me or if you just led me to believe that because of YOUR own beliefs and desires that you deserved it. If I don't hear from you in the next 24 hours, I will assume that you do not want to discuss this issue with me and I will be left no choice but to involve outsiders. I'd prefer to handle this privately, but how we do it is up to you.
